Non-Resident Named Safety Director

MAYOR BURKHARDT has announced his selection of a safety director to succeed Fred H. Fisher, resigned. The Rev. J. Norman King, secretary to the mayor and service director, has been designated to fill the vacancy.

King was formerly pastor of a South Side church. He is a resident of Wapakoneta now, being pastor of the First Presbyterian church there and his family occupies the parsonage of that church in Wapakoneta. King commutes between Lima and his home city daily.

Altho Burkhardt says the appointment may be only temporary, he gave no reason for naming a non-resident of Lima as a member of his cabinet. In becoming safety director King automatically becomes a member of the Board of Control, which has charge of the expenditure of funds and public work. This board is made up of the mayor, service director and safety director.

Why it was necessary for the mayor to go to Wapakoneta to get a cabinet member is not clear. None will dispute the high standing of Rev. King, who has made a host of friends here. His sincerity and integrity are beyond question. He is a minister by vocation, but so far as is known has had no training for the new place he is to fill in the city government.

Despite the fact that he is not a resident of Lima, King's official titles in Lima now are: safety director, secretary to the mayor; secretary to the service director; secretary to the safety director, and secretary of the policemen's and firemen's pension fund. His combined salary for his various duties before his appointment as safety director has been $135 a month. Fifty dollars a month will be added to this as salary of the safety director.

The action of the mayor in naming a non-resident of the city as head of the safety department is a direct slap at Lima. The man he has selected may be the best qualified in this part of the state to fill the place, but being a resident of another city should not have been chosen. In addition to being bad form, it probably is illegal and court action on the part of a taxpayer of Lima probably would result in blocking the appointment.

There certainly are men in Lima capable of filling this position.

THE AERIAL MAIL SERVICE

IT IS proposed by the postoffice department to reorganize the aerial mail service along distinctly new lines and the postmaster general has gone into the subject to some extent we are informed. Fortunately there does not seem to be a disposition to eliminate the aerial mail service.

It would be a bad bit of business for the United States to confess to the world that it is not competent to maintain a service of this character. There are fifty-five pilots in service now and they fly more than than 6,500 miles daily in the discharge of their duties. The department possesses about 65 airplanes that can be employed for aerial mail delivery, with 400 mechanics and twenty-one flying fields. The progress that has been made in the United States during the last eight years of experimentation with aerial development has taught the postal authorities among others the necessity for careful consideration of the airplane as a means of mail transportation. We are steadily approaching that period in our national history when the flying machine will be more than a mere experiment. It long ago passed from this stage into the more useful and important field of practical service.

We have had a good many tragedies with the aerial mail service since it was originated, but progress has been made. If a type of plane can be furnished which will render more security to pilots this will be the final step in the direction of permanency. It ought not to be considered impossible to acquire a serviceable flying machine in this nation of scientists.

FINANCIAL RELIEF FOR FARMERS

AGRICULTURAL land is cultivated, improved and maintained to the best permanent effect when it is owned by the farmers who work it. And proprietorship is one of the strongest incentives for keeping ambitious citizens in the country. These advantages, with many of the conveniences obtainable in the city, should make farming and rural life, which have their own charms, decidedly interesting and profitable.

Two important steps to afford necessary financial accommodations to farmers have been taken recently by the Federal Government. The Federal Reserve act has been amended so that national banks may lend money on unencumbered farm land for five years. In connection with the Federal Farm Land Bank System, the Government is arranging to provide a revolving fund of $50,000,000 and to appropriate $100,000,000 from the earnings of the Federal Reserve System. This amount of $150,000,000 will be in addition to the $40,000,000 of Land Bank bonds issued in April, and of which all but $1,500,000 have been sold.

The base of each loan is still held at fifty per cent of the value of the land, but it is now permissible for any individual to borrow as much as $25,000.

In time the immense subsidy furnished by the Government will be reduced thru the investments of private capital in land bank bonds. But the Government is to be commended for manifesting generosity which will give the farmer the accommodations which he needs, revive interest in agriculture, better agricultural conditions, and increase farm production. The farmer is the mainstay of the nation.

JUST FOLKS—BY EDGAR A. GUEST

A PLACE

Young man eager to rise in the world,
Hark to the tale I tell:
Never put hand to the least command
Unless you will do it well.
You must strive for speed, but speed is vain
If poorly the work is done,
And the time you take for a good job's sake
Is time well spent, my son.
I have known the world and the ways of men
And the things I tell are true:
You must build your fame on an honest name
And the work that you can do.
Whatever you promise you must perform.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is a doubtful day. Newspapers and magazines will give much space to propaganda or reforms of many kinds; educational questions will receive much attention. All who are engaged in the theatrical business will prosper during the summer. It is indicated that there will be serious troubles in South Africa and Holland. Uncertain conditions may be expected to prevail in Great Britain, altho popular measures will be passed in Parliament to appease the working classes. Persons whose birthday this is will have a quiet year; however they should use great care in writing letters of misunderstanding may result. Children born on this day may have psychic powers and may be inclined to be restless and dissatisfied unless carefully disciplined when they are young.

OLD SCISSORS SAYS:

Council might solve the problem of a new city hall by renting a building in Wapakoneta and save some of the city officials' carfare.

At any rate, an ambassador with a Ford is sure to make a lot of noise.

A FABLE.

Their social positions were beyond reproach. Their wedding was the most brilliant of that season.

It was attended by diplomats and dowagers of high degree. They lived together for several years and had several children.

To the amazement of everyone in their set, they continued to live together happily.

So far as any one could see, there was not a cloud on their matrimonial horizon.

There was never a hint of "another man" or "another woman."

Their children grew up into fine men and women. And they continued to live together. After they had been married forty years everybody said it could not last much longer.

Yet neither of them made any move to secure a divorce.

He became a very rich man and always took his own wife wherever he went.

He even took her on his yacht and on all his trips to Europe.

Finally they both died, after living together sixty years.

This is not, of course, a logical conclusion, but this is the way it happened.
As somebody has said, it is a queer world.

A little exercise after the bath is a good thing, according to a physician. One good way to get it, according to a contributor, is to step on the soap.

Three or four times lately They have got us all ready For the end of the world, and Have got us all excited, Figuring how much we would save By having the end of things. This time we were told again That a comet would swish us With its fiery tail and Anything might be expected, And we got out the dress suit. And the white gloves, and sat In the living room with a lily In our hands, waiting In our most respectable attire For the millennium.

Along about two in the morning We were still all dressed up With no place to go, and had About given up, when suddenly There was a tremendous Gust of wind and a crash That knocked us off the chair, And we lay there for an hour And finally opened one eye And saw that the wind had Blown an awning thru one Of our windows, and it cost Us $14 for new awning and glass. Besides the expense of getting The dress suit pressed. These comets sharp have got To quit fooling us. That's all.

The Day of Corns is over for the folks who know

They stop the pain, then end the corn completely. Their method is Blue-jay, either liquid or plaster.

They apply it by a touch. The corn is then forgotten until it loosens and comes out.

The inventor was a chemist who studied corns for many years. The maker is a surgical dressing house of world-wide repute.

Blue-jay makes harsh methods unnecessary. It is gentle, yet nothing could be more efficient. It makes paring ridiculous, for paring is dangerous, and it never could end a corn.

Watch the effect on one corn. It will change all your ideas. It will win you as it has won millions, to this newer, better method. Do it for your own sake.

HEALTH HINTS

By William Brady, M. D.

WHAT TO EAT WHILE ON VACATION

We have received numerous requests from readers about to go to the country for a vacation, and they desire to know how much milk and eggs one should eat in order to build up the strength and blood, or something like that.

This year there should be plenty of good, fresh vegetables and fruit available in the country and at vacation resorts. It is a fine time to be a vegetarian for a while and see how it feels. Especially for those who have more or less "stomach and liver trouble," due to excess of food and insufficient fodder.

Green peas, string beans, asparagus, new potatoes, green corn, berries, lettuce, cabbage, onions, greens of all kinds, the list of appetizing and healthful foods is a long one.

Eggs do not build up strength and blood any more than potatoes or green peas do, perhaps not so much. Eggs are simply more concentrated nutriment. The chief fault of our city diet is lack of bulk. The intestine is not given necessary exercise. Let the farmers put their eggs in cold storage or waterglass, and eat what the earth so abundantly supplies in the summer time.

People with auto-intoxication, constipation, bilious tendency, so-called dyspepsia, flatulency, and numerous other symptoms of digestive disturbance, should strive to get away from the concentrated diet of city life and give the alimentary tube a vacation. A change is as good as a rest. Let the vacation diet be a radical change for the better.

One who loves fresh country milk makes no mistake in drinking plenty of it. Next to fried corn meal mush and well-made coffee, there is no delicacy to compare with milk fresh and warm from the cow, in the opinion of the writer of these remarks. Then it is uncontaminated by human handling and not a culture medium for all sorts of germs; moreover, the natural ferments present in the milk are still alive and active, which probably makes the milk more digestible than ordinary market milk. Be a vegetarian for the period of your vacation and see how fine you will feel.

FIRST WOMAN JURY IN AUGLAIZE

New Standard Set For Courts in History of County

FORGERY TRIAL OPENS

Mayor Prohibits Sale of Fire-crackers Until July 2

WAPAKONETA (Special)

The first jury in the history of Auglaize county to be composed entirely of women was empaneled in the court of justice R. G. Herrman, Wednesday when the case of the state against Mrs. Dorothy Kogge, charged with forgery, came up for trial. Jurors were Mesdames Jennie Brown, Mollie Eyster, Enos Wright, J. V. Purvis, Malcolm Baxter and Ed Fisher.

The case of the state against Otto Wierwille, Shelby county young man charged with uttering a false check for $75 on Jerry Delrick, New York produce dealer, was up in common pleas court today. Wierwille is charged to have been a close associate of Arthur Opperman, who was caught in Lima and is now serving time at the reformatory, and Wesley Schroeder, who is incarcerated in the industrial school at Lancaster. Both of the latter plead guilty to forgery.

Due to much premature celebrating on the part of youngsters Mayor Elmer Newcomer caused dealers to stop selling firecrackers and fireworks until July 2.

Twenty-eight years ago George Wier placed a roof on the Home Milling Co. elevator. With the recent purchase of the building to make way for a park site Auglaize was given the job of removing it.

The county council of the Auglaize county good roads federation is asking to create a fund for the purpose of carrying on its work by assessing each auto owner in the county a dollar. Fund campaign to be undertaken immediately under supervision of Albert Herzog, St. Marys, chairman of the council.

A double ordination took place at St. John's Lutheran church at Anna when Emil Richert and Arthur Bombs were conferred with ministerial powers by Dr. C. N. Lenski, dean of the seminary at the Capital University. Ten years ago Dr. Lenski was pastor of St. Jacob's church and married Richert and Bombs and another young man to enter the ministry. They accepted and with the double ceremony that occurred all have been ordained.

The price of butter fat jumped five cents on the local market yesterday. The old price was 22c and the new price is 27c.

Mogadore Citizen Full of Life And Energy Now, Says Tanlac Has No Equal

Although H. A. Ticknor, retired farmer, living on R. F. D. No. 19, Mogadore, Ohio, is now past seventy-six years of age, he is in perfect health and does not hesitate to give Tanlac credit for his fine condition. Mr. Ticknor also owns considerable property in Akron and is widely known and respected. His statement will be of interest throughout the state.

"I had been falling pretty much here of late," said Mr. Ticknor, "and was generally run down. My appetite went back on me and I couldn't eat. My nerves were all on edge and I seemed to stay unusually restless all the time. I slept poorly and felt weak and tired out from morning till night."

"Reading and hearing so much about Tanlac, I took a notion to see if it would suit my case. I have taken three bottles now and can truthfully say it beats anything I ever saw in my life. My appetite has come back and I enjoy three good hearty meals every day now. My nerves have steadied down and I sleep fine and have been built up so I seem to have new life and strength about me. Tanlac certainly has proved its worth in my case and I gladly give it my hearty endorsement."

"Tanlac is sold in Lima by Hunter's Drug Store and leading druggists—adv."

WHY DOES SHE LOOK SO OLD?

This question has been asked about many a woman under thirty, who has married and taken upon herself the cares of a house and young children. When a woman is suffering from female weakness, bearing down pains, head and back ache and nervous irritation, it is well nigh impossible to attend to her duties and retain the charm and freshness of youth. Must she then struggle on toward the inevitable nervous breakdown or premature old age?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from such a fate. Thousands of grateful letters from such women testify to the merits of this wonderful root and herb medicine for female ills.—Adv.

ENGAGED BUT IS NOT IN LOVE

Man Wants to Break Engagement When He Finds He Cares More for Another

Dear Miss Smart: There is a splendid young man who works in the same office in which I am employed. We were thrown together for quite some time and we grew to be very fond of each other. He told me of his great regard and respect for me and said that he was engaged. He told me that he had realized he was not in love with her and did not care to marry her as he should a wife. He said he was going to ask to be released from this engagement even if I will not promise to marry him, because he does not think it fair to the girl nor to himself to continue this way. Neither of us want to do anything to cause great unhappiness on the part of this girl and so we are asking your advice. I feel that an engagement is a very serious thing.

PROMISE to marry is indeed a serious thing. It is something which should be held sacred and not be lightly made or lightly broken. However, if one sees his or her mistake, it is far better to be honorable and fair, admit the mistake and ask to be released.

If the young man is certain that he does not love this girl as he should, the only thing for him to do is to go to her, explain the situation in the kindest way he knows and ask to be freed. If she cares for him deeply, she naturally will suffer a great unhappiness for a time but if she were to marry him and afterwards learn that he cared more for another, her unhappiness would be far greater and more lasting.

If you learned to care for this man before you knew of his engagement, you are perfectly innocent and can accept his love with a clear conscience when he is free to offer it to you. Had you known of his engagement before this you would deserve much contempt and criticism.

I am very certain that this young man's fiancée will break the engagement when she knows he no longer cares for her and that marriage under that condition would be a dreadful thing. However, he should be very certain of his love before he makes a second attempt.

Dear Miss Smart: I am going to entertain a few friends at dinner and I wish you would kindly tell me where the goblets should be placed on the table?

MRS. K.

Goblets should be placed at the end of the knife.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl 12 years old and there is a certain boy who cares for me greatly. He says I like him too and we have lots of fun together. The other day I met a boy friend and he walked down the street with me. This other boy saw me and now he won't speak to me. What do you think I should do?

HELEN

Now, aren't you a foolish little girl to become entangled in a "love affair" at so young an age? Think what "troubles" will await you when you are 18 if you are beginning to have them now. Don't you think it would be far wiser and much more sensible if you were to forget all about the boys and interest yourself with your little girl friends? Don't worry over the silly little boy who refused to speak to you. In the future think more of your girl friends and amuse yourself with the pleasures and enjoyments which are adapted to girls of your age.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl of 16 years old and my nose isn't a very pretty shape. It causes me a great deal of worry and I would like to know if there is anything which I can do to change the shape of it?

SWEET SIXTEEN

Don't try to change the shape of your nose. "Sweet Sixteen," because I am afraid you will meet with little success. Don't permit so trivial a thing as your nose to cause you so much worry. Charm and personality count more. If you are pleasant and friendly, your friends will forget about your nose.

NEWS OF THE PLAYHOUSES

(By ESTHER WAGNER)

EVER since "The Miracle Man" by George Loane Tucker (who is no more) directors and fans alike have clamored for more crook roles for Thomas Meighan. They gave him a splendid role in "The Frontier of the Stars," if you remember. But it seems that his prize crook impersonation is that of "The City of Silent Men" which will appear here within a few weeks.

Many of the scenes were filmed in Sing Sing, the most famous penitentiary in the world, while others were photographed in the Criminal Courts Building with its celebrated Bridge of Sighs, and the Tombs itself.

Pretty Lois Wilson is Meighan's leading woman and she heads an unusually competent cast. The picture, I believe, is based on John Moropoco's novel, "The Quarry," and it was directed by Tom Forman. Can we say any more in its praise?

It's more of a comedy, with a godly element of mystery. The crooks, with the exception of one who turns up at the last minute, are all so good at heart they don't really.

Ethel Watts Mumford, who wrote the story, rang in the outfit board to insure its popularity. She makes a devotee of it, two lovely ladies, Aunt Mable and Dorcas, who, living alone, are mortally afraid of burglars. They call on the departed Uncle Henry to protect them.

THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER

By RUPERT HUGHES

Deborah's hand went to her heart where there was an ache of pity for the woman who had never pitied her. Deborah now, she was only now coming out, taking flesh upon her bones and rhythm into her movements. And that scrawny chicken-like chest of hers was becoming worthy of that so beautiful name for, so that a place, she was gaining a bosom. She did not know how the classical sultan Time had shifted his favor to her from his other favorites.

She only knew that Josie was in disgrace with beauty, and stared after her in wet-eyed pity. Who can feel sorry for a fallen tyrant as the risen victim of tyranny?

A few weeks later Deborah went again to the Shillaber house, sat again on the sofa in dining room. The children had all come home. Josie was in the parlor, almost hidden in flower guests. They all flocked and looked at her and shook their heads. She did not answer with a nod. Birdaline wept over her looking older and terrified. But Pamela was wonderfully pretty in black. She sang Josie's favorite hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," with the quartet accompanying her. When the preacher said a few words she prayed.

Mr. Crankshaw was there, and so were his camp-stools. One of them had collapsed, and the bass of the choir had been unable to open his. Some of the young people giggled, as always. But even for them, the night was but the automatic whirl of released spring and there was no mirth in the air. The girl Pamela had sung here a year or so up and that song to the rose, and she shed the flower and ruined it and tossed it aside. So time had sung away the rose that had been Deborah. Deborah had heard the rose cut in its agony of dissolution, and now it was fallen from the tree, scentless and dead. But it left at least other buds. To replace it. That was more than Deborah had ever done.

The store was closed the day of the funeral, and Deborah had been with her mother. All that her mother could talk about was: "Poor Josie! But did you see Birdaline? My, how poorly she looks! And so kind of scared: And she used to be such a nice-looking girl! Mr. how she has aged! Poor Josie! But Birdaline! What was she so scared about?"

It was the very old triumphing over the old for meeting the same fate. In her own summer Mrs. Larrabee had been a rose and had shriveled on the stem.

That night Deborah thanked God that he had not lent her beauty. Her repayment was such a ruin. The next morning the Bazaar was open at the regular hour. Shopper was again in his office. He wore people were as eager as ever to enhance their charms or disguise their flaws. In a few days Asaph Shillaber was again in his office. He wore black always, and a black tie, and he talked about with mourning in his manner.

A month later his cravat was brown, not black, and the next week it was red. He was taking more care of his costume. He talked more with the women customers, especially the young women, and he did not keep his eye anxiously on the front door. He rubbed his hands once more, recommending his goods.

In a few months younger girls were behind many of the counters. Deborah felt that youth was invading and replacing. She wondered how soon her turn would come. It would be a sad day, for she loved the work.

She took some reassurance from the praises of Asaph. He paused now and then to compliment her on a sale on her progress. He led up to her some of his most particular customers and introduced her with a flourish. Sometimes he paused as he went down the aisle, and turned back to stare at her. She knew that she had blushed, because her face was hot, and once Mrs. Crankshaw, who was trying to match a sample, whispered to her:

"Say, Deborah, what kind of rage do you use? It gives you the nicest color, and it looks like real."

When Deborah denied that she painted, the undertaker's wife was angry. She thought Deborah was trying to copy her complexion. Deborah's cheeks factually turned pale again, how that Asaph had taken his strange eyes from her and now the woman said:

"You're right, it's your own. It comes and goes. Look, now it's coming back again."

And so was Asaph. When Mrs. Crankshaw had moved off Asaph hung about awkwardly. Finally he put the backs of his knuckles on the counter and leaned across to murmur:

"Say, Debby, I was telling Jim Crawford yesterday that you made more sales than any other clerk in the shop this last month."

"Oh, really, did I?" Deborah gasped, her eyes sparkling like electric sparks. They seemed to J. T. Asaph, he felt back a little. Then he leaned closer.

"Crawford said he'd like to have you in his store. I told him you were a fixture here. 'Don't you leave me, Debby. You won't, will you?'"

"Why, Asaph?" she cried.

"Leas'tways, you'll let me know any offer you get before you take it. You can promise me that, can't you?"

"Of course I will, but — Well, I never!"

This last was true. She never had known till now that superlative rapture of a woman — to have one man trying to take her away from another. Debby had not known it even as a little girl, for if two boys claimed the same dance — which happened rarely enough — they did not wrangle and fight, but each yielded to the other with a courtesy that was odious.

On her way home Deborah began to doubt the possibility of it all. Asaph had been talking about somebody else, or he had been joking — he was such a terrible fellow to cook up things and fool people! Or else Jim Crawford was just making fun of Asaph. She would not tell her mother the news.

That night as she was washing the dishes after her late supper the doorbell buried.

"You go, mother, will you? My hands are all soiled."

Mrs. Larrabee hobbled slowly to the hall door, but came back with a burst of unsuspected speed. She was pale with fright.

"It's a man!" she whispered.

"A man! Who could it be?" Debby gasped.

One of those daylight burglars speedily recognized a familiar suit. "It's old Jim Crawford," she said. There was a panic of another sort now; getting Debby's hands off her sleeves down, her apron off, her hair puffed, the lamp in the parlor lighted. Old Jim Crawford was some minutes older before he was admitted.

It was the first male caller Deborah had had since her mother could remember. The old lady received him with a flourish that would have befitted a king. That he was a widower and, for Carthage, wealthy may have had something to do with it. A fantastic hope that at last somebody had come to propose to Deborah excited her mother so that she took herself out of the way as soon as the weather had been decently discussed.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE FIRST QUARREL

"What a strange girl you really are, Cherry," said Ned, after his wife's confession. "Most girls in Wellsburg would be mighty happy to be in your shoes. Darned few of them have any inclination for work, if they can get a husband to do so for them; believe me. As for you envying Miss Bates, why, lady, what nonsense. You'd die if you had to keep the books that she has to. That girl has no play time at all. I feel downright sorry for her at times. It was a treat for her to go over to Roddery with me this afternoon, because we went thru the country. Poor little girl, she's very blue at times. I wish you'd send her an invitation to come over and see us sometimes at night. She's so alone."

"Of course I will, if you want, dear. But couldn't she get some other job here in Wellsburg and I take hers? I am wonderful at figures, honor bright, Neddy, and I would be so heavenly to feel that I was working at some real work and helping you besides," pleaded Cherry.

"How much work do you suppose you and I would get done between us, honey-girl?" asked Ned with a laugh. "About a thimbleful. I simply couldn't work with my little girl about the place. Why, we'd be shipping off and spooning every few minutes or so. No, that's hardly a constructive suggestion, Cherry."

"Well, I knew you'd never approve, Ned. But I'm going to find something to do, or die, that's all. We won't get our own place to live in for several months yet, and I can't stand my present life any longer. I have nothing against your family, not a little bit, but I just can't go on this way."

"Cherry, dear, you will only make things twice as hard for me if you start a rebellion in this home of ours. Can't you adapt yourself to our ways, and just play lady for a while? Do try," he pleaded ardently.

The Proper Care of Children's Hair

How to Keep It Beautiful, Healthy and Luxuriant

THE beauty of your child's hair depends upon the care you give it. Shampooing it properly is always the most important thing.

It is the shampooing which brings out the real life and lustre, natural wave and color, and makes their hair soft, fresh and luxuriant.

When your child's hair is dry, dull and heavy, lifeless, stiff and gummy, and the strands cling together, and it feels harsh and disagreeable to the touch, it is because the hair has not been shampooed properly.

When the hair has been shampooed properly, and is thoroughly clean, it will be glossy, smooth and bright, delightfully fresh-looking, soft and silky.

While children's hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp. Makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating mothers use Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product cannot possibly injure and it does not dry the scalp, or make the hair brittle, no matter how often you use it.

If you want to see how really beautiful you can make your child's hair look, just

Two waters are usually sufficient for washing the hair; but sometimes the third is necessary.

You can easily tell, for when the hair is perfectly clean it will be soft and silky in the water.

Rinse the Hair Thoroughly

THIS is very important. After the final washing the hair and scalp should be rinsed in at least two changes of good warm water and followed with a rinsing in cold water.

After a Mulsified Shampoo, you will find the hair will dry quickly and evenly and have the appearance of being much thicker and heavier than it is.

If you want your child to always be remembered for its beautiful, well-kept hair, make it a rule to set a certain day each week for a Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo. This regular weekly shampooing will keep the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, fresh-looking and fluffy, wavy and easy to manage, and it will be noticed and admired by everyone.

You can get Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo at any drug store or toilet goods counter. A 4-ounce bottle should last for months.

Follow This Simple Method

FIRST, wet the hair and scalp in clear, warm water.

Then apply a little Mulsified Coconut Oil Shampoo, rubbing it in thoroughly all over the scalp and throughout the entire length, down to the ends of the hair.

Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather. This should be rubbed in thoroughly and briskly with the finger tips, so as to loosen the dandruff and small particles of dirt that stick to the scalp.

When you have done this, rinse the hair and scalp with clear, fresh, warm water. Then use another application of Mulsified.

Teach Your Boy to Shampoo His Hair Regularly

IT may be hard to get a boy to shampoo his hair regularly, but it's mighty important that he does so.

His hair and scalp should be kept perfectly clean to insure a healthy, vigorous scalp and a fine, thick, heavy head of hair.

CHAMPION DEMPSEY HAS NOTHING BUT WORDS OF PRAISE FOR HIS SHIFTY SPARRING MATE

(By JACK DEMPSEY.)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Put us only four rounds of boxing Tuesday noon—but they certainly were worth the wait. Each one was filled with plenty of action and the four of them gave me the needed variety of work.

The more I box with Eddie O'Hara the more I am pleased that this 20-year-old youngster is in my camp. He recently graduated from the amateur ranks. But what a beautiful boxer he is. With year or so more of experience he'll be a middleweight wonder.

EXCEEDINGLY SHIFTY.

Eddie is about the shiftest person I've tackled in a long, long time, and every second of the way he keeps me stepping. That long left jab of his is a beauty, and the practice I get avoiding it is something that ought to help me greatly when I mix it with Georges Carpentier. I cannot conceive of the Frenchman, fast as he may be, any faster than O'Hara. So, when ever I find that I can keep pace with Eddie and land on him, I feel more and more satisfied that Georges isn't going to do any successful work on July 2.

Larry Williams came on after I boxed two rounds with O'Hara and invited me to "slug it." Larry stood up nicely under two or three drives and assuming that he was in shape to take 'em as fast as I could shoot them over, I planted a right to the chin and followed with a left. Larry went down, he got up and we wrestled around awhile. Then Larry said he was ready for more mixing.

KAYGOES WILLIAMS.

But it didn't last long. I didn't mean to hurt Larry. I never want to drop a sparring partner. But Larry came in at me with a wild rush, I saw his jaw exposed and I let fly. He went down in a heap and Teddy Hayes and I helped him to the corner. Larry was not badly hurt, but that ended him for the day.

Jack Renault worked out the final round with me. Jack's orders were to try to smash me with a right-hander for the jaw, I wanted to get a little practice trying to duck the famous right of my ring rival of July 2. Jack made about 30 swings for my chin but I don't recall that a single one of them landed.

Battling Ghee, the Memphis negro, has severed connection with my camp. The big negro came from the South with the promise of giving me the best workouts that any man ever gave. He invited me to let loose in our first work. I did—and he went down three times.

ONCE IS ENOUGH.

When we worked Monday I wanted him to tear in, but the batter wouldn't. He said he was a little too smart—that once had been quite enough and to-day he served notice that he thought he could get a job elsewhere that would pay him just about as much without half the trouble.

I've been hopeful that Kid Norfolk would come down here to help finish my training, but I learned to-day that the negro heavyweights in Lee Flynn's stable has a bad eye and doesn't want to take any chances with it, so I reckon he won't come down to do any boxing, at least.

"Bull" Montana, the movie wrestler, took me on in what was scheduled to be a shoving match after I got through boxing. Bull applied his favorite grip, an ear hold. I did the same. Bull began to yell. I let him loose. Then he forgot all about it being a shoving match and tried to sock me, but I took his ears and again clinched him around the ring. After about three minutes of this mauling, Teddy Hayes called time. Then came a few bending exercise, which wound up the day.

Club Loop To Stage First Double Bill Thursday

TANDINGS in the Lima Business Club league remain the same, The weather man is to blame for that.

Just when the Lions were all primed to wallop the Kiwanians, and just when the Kiwanians were all set to kick the proverbial pudding outta the Lions, the weather man up and pulls the rain lever, allowing the ducts to open and flood Murphy-st. lot. Consequently, the pastime was called off.

But here's the real news. The first double header of the Business Club loop will be staged here Thursday afternoon.

The Lions and Kiwanians will open the afternoon's pastime, swinging into action at 2 o'clock. Following this struggle, the Rotary will battle Elks for league supremacy.

Yes sir, Oscar, fourteen innings (maybe) of real baseball. That is there will be fourteen innings provided the Lions-Kiwanians teams do not stage a slugfest which consumes the major portion of the afternoon.

LIONS ARE SET

Really, the Lions are all set to climb right out of that cellar at the expense of the Kiwanians. Manager Harman, of the Monarchs, like the American polo team, makes the statement: "We are not saying we will win, but we'll do our best to shove Jim Jolly's head down amongst the home brew."

The Lions will enter tomorrow's fray with the same line-up used last Tuesday. Soash will offer up the balls and strikes, while Burke will handle the bat.

Hedgus will guard the receive cushion, while Fast will gallop around the keystone bag. Doc Wisely will watch over the interest of the short field, and Boop will be at the dizzy corner.

SNODGRASS'LL BE THERE

"Snodgrass" Hays will pastime in the left suburbs, while Basinger will care for centerfield. Bill Strange will face the sun in the outlying districts to the right.

While the Kiwanians hurler for Thursday has not been announced, it is understood, Manager Jolly is figuring strongly on using Red Bowman.

It is not impossible that Eddie Ashton will be given an opportunity to stage a comeback with the Rotarians against the Elks in the second game Thursday. Ashton has earned the title of hard luck pitcher in the circuit, and is working hard to rid himself of the jinx. The best bet is the Elks looks like Coon with Durbin behind the bat.

POLO BATTLE IS RESUMED TODAY

HURLINGHAM — British-American hostilities were resumed on the polo field here Wednesday.

With their mounts in perfect shape and with Captain Devereaux Milburn declaring himself cured of a lumbago attack, the Americans were determined that today's match would conclude the international contest.

The Americans expected to rush into the fray as they did last Saturday, sweeping their opponents from their feet and keeping them so busy on the defensive that the Britishers would have no chance at any offensive game.

The British were thoroughly aroused, however.

Neither team was to make any changes in the line-up.

The game today was to consist of seven chukkers.

Navy Crew Enters Race As Favorite

BOUGHKEEPIE, N. Y. — The great eight-oared crew of the United States naval academy, national and world's champions last year, reigned the favorite Wednesday to win the inter-collegiate rowing championship on the Hudson river.

Second in the betting and California third, with Cornell figured a problem. Pennsylvania and Syracuse are considered out of it.

Great crowds flocked in here today to watch the water classic of the season. The city was filled with colors, banners, pennants and flags. Old grads and under-grads mingled in mobs on the streets, singing their songs and waving their colors.

CHAMPS ENTERED

CHICAGO — Four former champions are entered for the eleventh annual national clay court tennis championships in men's singles and doubles at the Chicago Tennis Club, beginning Saturday.

Walter T. Hayes, Chicago, 1911 champion; R. Norris Williams, Boston, 1912 and 191555 champion; Wil- la E. Davis, San Francisco, 1916 champion; and Samuel Hardy, New York, 1917 champion, were announced as assured entrants today.

Among other late entries was Richard Curran, city champion of Cleveland.

Indians Bunt Win

CHICAGO—Cleveland copped the first game of the set on the south side Tuesday by outbunting the White Sox, to the tune of 6 to 3. A few misplays by hands and heads also figured in the result, but the ability of the Indians to lay them down and the inability of the Gears' out to do that decided the scrap.

Three of Cleveland's hits were safe bunts, and two others were in-field scratches. Two of the visitors' tallies were the result of bunts.

Three different times the Sox lost chances to score because they could not sacrifice.

The score: Cleveland... 130 000 020—6 12 1 Chicago... 111 000 000—3 12 1

This and Nunnemaker; McWeeney; Wilkinson and Schalk. Two base hits—Smith, Wamby. Three base hits—Hooper. Struck out—McWeeney, 2; Wilkinson, 1; Uhl, 2. Bases on balls—McWeeney, 2; Uhl, 1. Double play—Gardner-Johnston. Hits—McWeeney, 5 in 3 innings; Wilkinson, 7 in 7 innings. Umpires—Dinneen and Moriarty.

Champ's Defects Not Serious Type

(By JACK McALIFFEE)
(Undeified Lightweight Champion)

NEW YORK — Jack Dempsey has many faults and defects, but they are not serious.

The world's champion cannot husband his strength. This is his most noticeable failing. He burns himself out quickly and needs lots of wind for his high speed offensive.

Occasionally he leads with his right. Maybe he does it in play, but it is a bad habit to get into as it leaves himself wide open for a right hook. He has no defense. He has a very poor guard. Carpentier will be able to both hit under or over it.

The champion also has the bad habit of stooping and half turning away from a clutch. He doesn't have to do it. It wastes time and is ineffective and is very dangerous.

He also has a slight physical disadvantage in the cut over the left eye. It evidently has been tender since he got it training for Willard. If the fight goes long enough Carpentier is sure to open it and Dempsey bleeds very freely.

Gibbons Meets Fat Willie Wednesday

CLEVELAND — Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight who has eleven consecutive knockouts to his credit, and Willie McLean of San Francisco, who holds two decisions over Jack Dempsey, are scheduled to meet here Wednesday night in a 12 round bout, to a decision. Gibbons expects to enter the ring weighing 175 pounds, twenty pounds less than his opponent.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — Three hot battles for American golfers are promised in the pairings for the first round of the British open championship here beginning tomorrow.

Walter Hagen, one of the best American bets, will try the redoubtable British champion, George Duncan. W. Melhorn will oppose the veteran, Harry Vardon. The luck of the draw also oppose the youthful "Bobby" Jones to Jack Hutchinson, American professional champion, and medalist in the qualification rounds.

TWO STARS OF FAST AGATHON TEAM WHICH PLAYS INDEPENDENTS

Here are two additional stars of the Agathons fold. The Agathons lay claim to being the world's champion independent organization. The Lima Independents will endeavor to separate them from this claim when they meet this afternoon at Murphy-Yankees.

st. ball park. The game will be called at 4 o'clock.

Moseley, needs little or no introduction to local fans, for he is a past member of the Cincinnati Reds' hurling department. Hartle is a former member of the New York Yankees.

JACKSON DEFEATS Three Ohio Cities

DAVIS AT SHOES

MARSHALLTOWN — Frank Jackson, Keokuk, Iowa, champion horse shoe pitcher of the world, defeated C. C. Davis of Columbus, Ohio Tuesday in a return match, one hundred to ninety-eight. The two recently met in the famous three hundred point match for a four hundred dollar side bet, which terminated in court action when it was found that the pegs were set at forty-one feet instead of forty as had been agreed upon. The case will be called before a court in Des Moines June 24.

Best Are There

CINCINNATI — Two hundred and seven golfers are entered to compete in the Ohio Golf Association's eighth annual tournament which starts Wednesday over the links of the Losantville Country Club.

Because of the large number of players, it was made necessary to start them in two divisions — 104 at the first tee and 103 at the tenth.

The list of entries is about evenly divided between local and out-of-town players. Practically all of Ohio's best golfers are entered.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Englishman and American sitting in a room with four visible doors in it. The American got weary of doing nothing, so he said to Bob: 'I'll bet you $5 there are five doors, in this room.'

The Englishman replied: 'What is the matter with you? You can see plainly well there are only four.'

American: 'I am game. Put up your money and let's be doing something, anyway.'

The American commenced to count. "One door, two doors, three doors, four doors, cuspidor, five."

When the Englishman got back to his club and found a room with four doors he pulled the joke. He commenced to count, "One door, two doors, three doors, four doors, spittoon," and does not know yet where his foot slipped.

John was asked to write a short history on the life of General Braddock. In his composition was the following compound sentence: "Braddock was a brave man; he had three horses shot from under him, and the fourth went thru his clothes."

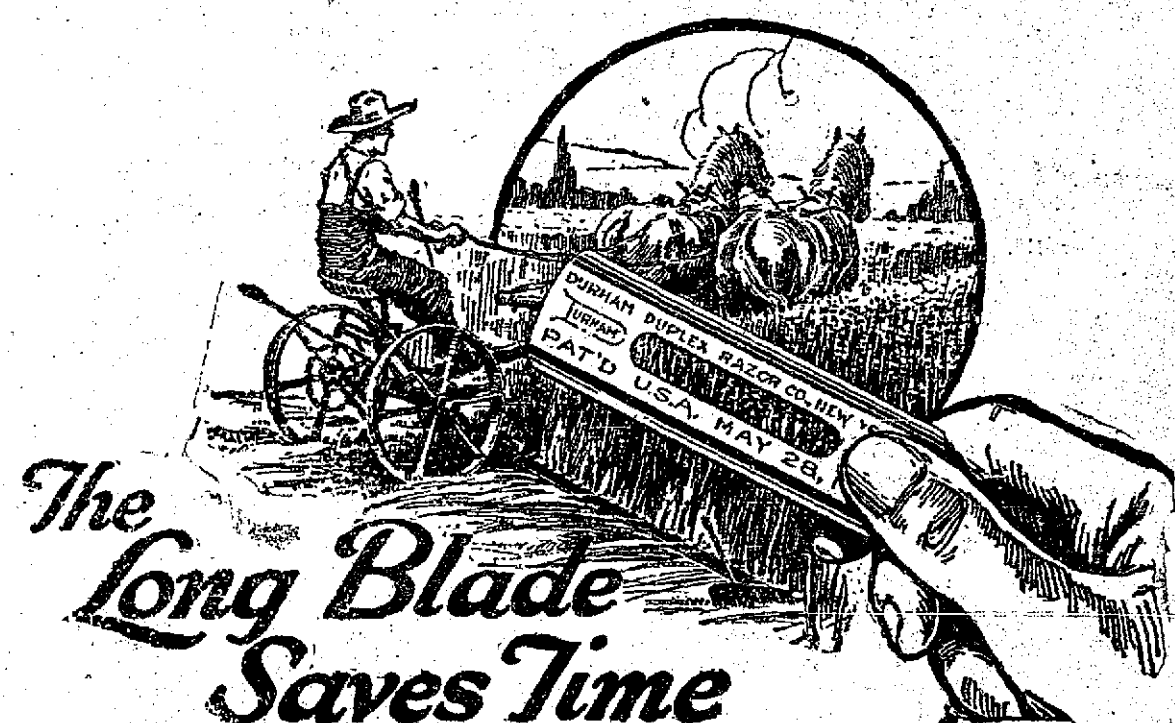

Witherspoon thought it was a good chance to get medical aid without paying for it.

"How do you do this morning,

colonel?" asked Dr. Soomover. "Poorly, doctor, poorly. For some time past I have been suffering from weakness. As you see, I can hardly walk. What shall I take, doctor?" "Take a taxi," replied the doctor, "ruffly," as he strode off.

The Durham-Duplex clips the minutes from your morning shave just as the long blade of a mowing machine saves time in the farmer's job. The extra length of the Durham-Duplex blade does the trick. Durham-Duplex double-edged blades are the longest detachable blades on earth. And the keenest. No smarting, no burning. A face-saver as well as a time-saver. Change Today to the

The Bulk Station— Essential to Your Oil Supply

SOMEWHERE in nearly every city, town and hamlet of Ohio is the Standard Oil Bulk Supply Station, unnoticed perhaps, but playing its essential part in the life and industry of the community it serves.

Just as a city must depend for its water supply and its light on some central reservoir or station, so it must look to an adequate service for maintaining its supply of the vital products of petroleum necessary to its industry and its progress. The Standard Oil Bulk Station is prominent in this service, gauging the requirements of its field and maintaining the supply of fuels and lubricants which give light, heat, power and comfort.

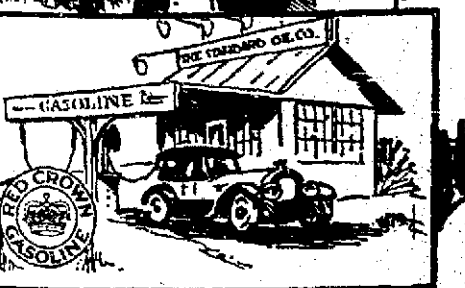

Three hundred and more Standard Oil Bulk Stations dot the State of Ohio, located wherever the needs of people, of manufacturing and of farming have dictated. It is the aim of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio that this part of its distribution system shall always keep pace with the development of the State, ready always to serve where a new industry, a new activity, may spring up.

Standard Oil Bulk Station equipment has expanded with the constantly increasing army of motorists, for Red Crown Gasoline is one of the principal products handled through the bulk station. Automobile owners and drivers have been quick to realize the many advantages of this uniform fuel. Its complete range of boiling points gives full power at every engine speed. Snappy acceleration, plenty of pull on the hills and a quick response to a demand for speed are definite qualities of Red Crown Gasoline.

For dependable lubrication—Polarine Oil, Medium and Heavy, Polarine Transmission Lubricants and Polarine Cup Grease. Fill at the Red Crown Sign—Service Stations and Garages.
